First, we admit that this is a trick question. Literal-minded? We’re on the campus of Florida Gulf Coast University. Main entrance, first left, in the first building past the parking garage.

Listeners would say we’re at 90.1 FM (91.7, Marco Island) and PBS fans would say we are on multiple TV channels, both over-the-air and on cable. The tech-minded might point to our apps. But since last summer, the answer also is: We are out in the community. With you. Wherever you are.

We’ve had the pleasure of meeting so many of you face to face — at panel discussions, film screenings, teacher workshops, concerts, a wine tasting and a photography workshop. We’ve been on trips together and met you at on-site productions of our new weekday radio show, Gulf Coast Live.

We even took selfies with you at our first Twisted Strings Music Festival.

On these pages are a few captured moments of those times. And if you haven’t visited us at home base, the Myra Janco Daniels Public Media Center, please do. We are your public media station.

As another season of The Great British Baking Show begins this month, we decided to check in with a great local baker, Norman Love, and ask him to tell us about the time he spent with the great French baker, Julia Child. And he sweetly agreed.

If not for a little girl with a taste for chocolate and her father’s decision to indulge it, Southwest Florida pastry chef and chocolatier Norman Love may never have met Julia Child.

“It’s a really unusual story, how it came about,” Love said, recalling a day more than 20 years ago when he was executive pastry chef at the Ritz-Carlton in Naples. “A guest staying at the Ritz asked if I would entertain his child, a little girl, in a class. It wasn’t normally something we’d do. But we did, making some chocolate-dipped strawberries.” Some time later, after the family had returned home, the girl’s father called and reminded Love of the occasion. It turned out that the man was in the communications business, responsible for the publicity for Child’s TV shows.

“He asked if I’d be interested in participating in ‘Baking with Julia,’ and of course I was overjoyed,” Love added.

“I did two segments in her home in Cambridge, Mass. She was witty, she was funny, she was such a gracious host and so kind and to have the opportunity to spend 2½ days in her home was wonderful.

“We sat in the garden and talked about lunch and her life. And the time was so special to me. To be considered a
For the crust:
750g ready-made butter puff pastry, chilled
Plain flour for dusting

For the filling:
100g unsalted butter, softened
100g caster sugar
1 large free-range egg, plus 1 yolk, at room temperature
100g ground almonds
50g flaked almonds
1 teaspoon almond extract
Beaten egg, to glaze

Mary’s Galette

DIRECTIONS

1. Line a baking sheet with baking parchment. Roll out half the pastry on a lightly floured worktop until slightly thinner than a pound coin. Cut out a round about 23cm in diameter. Set on the lined baking sheet and cover with clingfilm. Roll out the rest of the pastry in the same way and cut a second round. Set this on top of the clingfilm, then cover the whole lot with clingfilm. Chill while making the filling.

2. Beat the butter until creamy with a wooden spoon or electric mixer. Beat in the sugar, then beat thoroughly until the mixture looks pale and fluffy. Beat the egg with the yolk until just combined, then gradually add to the butter mixture a tablespoon at a time, beating well after each addition. When the mixture is very light in colour and texture, gently stir in the ground almonds, flaked almonds and almond extract. Cover the bowl and chill for 15 to 20 minutes.

3. When ready to assemble uncover the pastry, and remove the top round and clingfilm. Spoon the filling onto the pastry round on the baking sheet, mounding it slightly in the middle, and leaving a 2cm border uncovered all around the edge.

4. Brush the pastry border with beaten egg, then gently lay the second pastry round over the filling. Press the edges firmly together to seal. Holding a small knife blade at right angles to the side of the pastry, ‘knock up’ the edge all around by making small indentations in the pastry. Then scallop the edge by pulling the indentations in at 2cm intervals with the back of the knife. Brush the top of the pastry very lightly with beaten egg to glaze and chill for 20 minutes. Meanwhile, preheat the oven to 425F.

5. Brush the top a second time with the beaten egg glaze, then score a pattern with the tip of a sharp knife. Make a couple of small steam holes in the centre. Bake for 25 to 30 minutes or until the pastry is a golden brown and crisp. Leave to cool slightly before serving.

Expressions June 2017
DIRECTIONS

1. Preheat oven to 350F. Grease and line the base of a 20cm deep spring form cake tin with parchment paper. Melt butter and chocolate in small saucepan over a low heat. Stir in crushed biscuits and press evenly over the base of the tin and chill in the fridge.

2. Break the white chocolate into a bowl and melt very gently over a pan of hot water (do not allow the chocolate to become too hot), stir occasionally with a spoon until runny and smooth.

3. Whisk the cream cheese and soured cream together in a large bowl until smooth. Add the eggs and vanilla extract and whisk until completely smooth with no lumps. Stir in the melted chocolate and mix together. Fold in the chopped ginger and mix together.

4. Pour in the tin and spread evenly over the chilled base. Bake in preheated oven for about 45 minutes until firm around the edge and just set in the middle. Remove from the oven. Using a small palette knife run the knife around the edge of the tin and then allow to cool and chill.

5. For the decoration, spoon the chocolate into a small piping bag fitted with a size 2 writing nozzle. Pipe 11 small chocolate holly leaf shapes down 2 strips of baking parchment. Place the strips of parchment paper over 2 rolling pins (so they have a slight curl when they set), or rolls of cling film or foil and secure with elastic bands on the end, to prevent them slipping off. Lay the rolling pins on the base of an empty egg box to prevent them rolling. Leave the chocolate leaves to set.

6. Using the red food coloring, color the marzipan bright red. Dust your hands with icing sugar and roll the marzipan into 27 small holly berries.

7. Remove the outside ring of the cheesecake and lift the base onto serving plate. Whip the cream to soft peaks and spoon into a piping bag fitted with a star nozzle. Pipe 8 rosettes around the top edge of the cheesecake and 1 rosette in the middle. Place one chocolate holly leaf and 3 holly berries on each cream rosette around the edge of the cheesecake and place 3 chocolate holly leaves and 3 marzipan berries on the cream rosette on the center.

INGREDIENTS

For the base:
- 50g butter
- 25g dark chocolate
- 150g digestive biscuits, crushed

For the filling:
- 300g white chocolate, drops or a bar broken into pieces
- 400g full fat cream cheese
- 150ml sour cream
- 2 eggs
- 1 tsp vanilla extract
- 4 balls stem ginger, finely chopped

For the decoration:
- 150g plain chocolate, melted
- 300ml double cream
- 25g marzipan
- Red food coloring
- Icing sugar for dusting
Mission control

WGCU’s mission is to “inspire, inform, educate, engage and entertain through the power of public media.” We realize our mission when you are inspired by a program you see, informed and educated by a news report or panel discussion, engaged in your community, or entertained by music, art, a compelling drama or a stirring story. The true power of public media comes from you, the listeners, viewers and supporters. And there is nothing that demonstrates the power of public media more than a gathering of WGCU supporters.

During the past year, we have had the honor of bringing you together to celebrate the arts, explore history, discuss local issues, and be entertained by music and drama.

On the pages of this issue of Expressions, we have selected some of our favorite photographs from some of our favorite events. Many of these events were fundraisers for WGCU and others were friend raisers. All of these events were intended to provide you with opportunities to explore the arts, discuss issues facing our community and the world, expand your knowledge and understanding, see old friends and make a few new ones.

Thank you for supporting WGCU. Thank you for bringing our mission to life. Thank you for being the power of public media.

P.S. Want to volunteer at WGCU? We are looking for volunteers for our Radio Reading Service. Each weekday morning, volunteers present printed materials via a special radio broadcast to persons who are blind, physically impaired and print handicapped. Email radioreading@wgcu.org to learn more.

Nourish your mind and your body

WGCU FM (90.1/91.7) will hold a special three-day pledge drive from June 5 to 7 and thanks to Naples Restaurant Week, when you pledge your support to WGCU at $125 or more, as our way of saying thank you, you may select a gift certificate to one of 48 Naples restaurants participating in Naples Restaurant Week.

Or if you’d rather do some shopping, you can donate $100 and select a $25 gift card from Miromar Outlets as your thank-you gift.

Make your donation at WGCU.org/nourishyourmind or call 800-533-9428.

Pledge early because there are limited numbers of gift certificates for the participating restaurants. You must use the gift certificates during Restaurant Week -- which actually goes on for two weeks, from June 1 to 14.

Restaurant Week is a semiannual, 14-day promotion that celebrates dining out at an affordable price. The Spring edition is June 1 to 14. Some restaurants have custom menus that can include drink/wine pairings, additional courses and meal upgrades. The goal of Restaurant Week is to encourage increased traffic to the best local restaurants and to celebrate the wide array of cuisine available in Southwest Florida.

Now hear this: New reporter on air

New WGCU radio news reporter Quincy Walters has a fresh degree from the University of South Florida. For a graduate as recent as December, he arrived at WGCU with plenty of experience, having been a contributing reporter for WUSF Public Radio in Tampa and an intern for NPR in Washington D.C.

At NPR, he worked for weekend All Things Considered. “Half of that was checking email and half was producing interviews and pitching stories,” he said. “I had to find a rhythm for that.”

And he did, successfully pitching and reporting on stories as diverse as the status of education in South Sudan during its civil war, what it’s like to be both black and autistic, and a closeup with the D.C. man who invented the Klingon language heard on Star Trek. “I Ubered out there to his house and interviewed him,” Walters recalled, smiling. No surprise that he has several Star Trek mementos in his office at WGCU.

Walters is looking forward to delving into stories about the environment, identity and other issues.
WGCU news team wins state and regional awards

WGCU Public Radio received a record-breaking eight Florida Associated Press awards for work in 2016. In two categories — Feature/Light News and Public Affairs — WGCU earned more awards than any other radio station in the small radio market category.

In the Feature/Light News category, Jessica Meszaros received awards for “Floridians Turn Nuisance Pigs into Profitable Pork” and “Talking About Death Over Dinner in Southwest Florida.” In Public Affairs, Meszaros won again for “Transgender Floridians,” sharing this one with Richard Chin Quee and Amy Tardif. In addition, honors went to “Cubans Contemplate Past, and Future, After Castro’s Death,” by Julie Glenn, Matthew Smith and Chin Quee.

Other awards announced in April in Orlando included these to WGCU:

The news team, for “Club Blu Teen Shooting Leaves 2 Dead, 18 Wounded,” in the Breaking News/Long Format category;

Topher Forhecz, for “Election Year in Southwest Florida,” in the Election Coverage category, and “Gladesmen, Everglades National Park at Odds Over Airboats” in the Feature/Cultural or Historical category.

According to the AP, 38 broadcast organizations from Florida submitted 536 entries in the contest.

All Things Considered host and news reporter Jessica Meszaros also recently won a 2017 Regional Edward R. Murrow award from the Radio Television Digital News Association. The award recognizes the best electronic journalism produced by radio, television and digital news organizations around the world.

Meszaros won in the Excellence in Writing category, Small Market Radio, Regional 13 (Florida, Georgia, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands) for her story “State Struggles to Eradicate Abandoned, Diseased Orange Groves.”

RTDNA received nearly 4,300 entries in 16 categories during the 2017 awards season.

VIP couple pulls strings for WGCU

WGCU is excited to introduce our 2018 Twisted Strings Music Festival VIP chairpersons: David and Gail Hall.

They may look familiar to you. The Halls have been very busy in our Southwest Florida community. They have quite a list of organizations and causes they have been involved with and supported.

And they’ve been a team for more than a few years now. The Halls met in college at the University of Florida. They have raised two children and are now raising puppies, Beethoven and Sebastian. As they shared their story with us, it was clear they are best friends—a team. They share a deep love of family and mutual passions, such as travel. Music is another. David plays the cello and Gail plays the piano.

David is the executive vice president, CFO and COO for Sanibel Captiva Community Bank. Gail is a longtime educator for Lee County Public Schools. Serving the community is important to them. About that David says, “Not only is it our civic duty but it makes the community strong.” This is exactly why they have supported so many organizations such as the Southwest Florida Symphony, The Florida Repertory Theatre and now, WGCU through the Twisted Strings Music Festival.

Going into its second year, the Twisted Strings Music Festival was created to introduce unique classical-crossover music to a diverse audience. It features classically trained musicians who play their instruments with a twist—fusing classical with jazz, blues, soul, hip hop, rock and world music, and all on stringed instruments.

With their love of music and education, David and Gail attended the inaugural festival last February through a table sponsorship by Sanibel Captiva Community Bank. They immediately agreed to get involved to help build the festival’s VIP experience.

Join David and Gail at the 2018 Twisted Strings Music Festival on Jan. 27, 2018. VIP tables are selling fast.

For more information on tickets, sponsorships and other ways to support the festival, go to wgcu.org/twistedstrings and follow the festival’s announcements on Facebook at Twisted Strings Music Festival SWFL, Twitter @twistedfest and Instagram #twistedstrings.

Doubling your gift doesn’t cost a dime…

WGCU Matching Gift Program

Some companies match gifts made by a spouse or retiree and some employers match your gift 2:1, or even 3:1. If your company has a matching gift plan, every dime you give to WGCU could be doubled (even tripled).

To find out if your employer is one of the 1,700 companies that makes matching gifts go to: wgcu.org/support/matching-gifts.

The donation page has a section to search for your company. (While you’re there, make a donation. Your gift receipt will include a direct link to access your company’s matching gift program.)
New lineup for kids features ‘two for the show’

The lineup for kids on the primary WGCU HDTV channel – 30.1 and cable 3 and 440 – changes on June 5. What to expect? Back to back fun and lots of it.

Two episodes of several popular shows run back to back, for a whole hour of enjoyment for kids and perhaps a task or two for Mom, Dad or grandparents.

And say hello again to some beloved members of the PBS family: Mister Rogers and Sesame Street.
Meet Eric Gorges and the master craftsmen

Host Eric Gorges goes on a quest to discover the true craftsmen in today’s world on Create TV’s A Craftsman’s Legacy. Traveling across the country, Gorges interviews the men and women responsible for carrying the tools, trades and traditions of fine craftsmanship into the 21st century. From a glass blower to a guitar maker, a weaver to a potter, every episode explains the history of a traditional craft and the importance of that craft in the United States today. Gorges, a welder by trade, meets and interviews master craftsmen, and learns why they chose their crafts, where they learned their skills, how they live using their talents, and the challenges and importance of keeping that tradition alive in a modern-day world. He then takes on the role of apprentice on a project under the guidance of the master craftsman.

A marathon of episodes airs Saturday, June 10 from 6 am to noon.

friend was very very special to me. We met several times after.”

Love shared an experience he had during the taping of the show that stands out above all others.

“She lived in a very typical New England-style home in Cambridge,” he said. “I remember coming in and being taken downstairs the day before to do our preparation. The studio was her home kitchen. I could hear her voice as another chef was filming. I was nervous and excited, thinking ‘Tomorrow I’m going to meet her.’

“When you film cooking, you usually break the recipes into many different segments. … So I meet Julia, and we’re standing in the kitchen. And they say ‘Action.’ I was making a walnut cream sauce. I placed all the ingredients in the pot. And then we began the next segment. And (meanwhile), the cream boiled over and there was smoke all over her kitchen. I’m thinking, ‘I can’t believe I just boiled the cream over.’ I was mortified. But they cleaned everything up. And again the directors say ‘Action.’ Julia said, ‘We’re going to begin with the walnut cream sauce. It might be a very good idea if you use a large pot in case it boils over,’ she said. So there we were, laughing.”

See original episode with Norman and Julia

Originally broadcast Aug. 19, 2006, see Norman Love’s appearance with the title chef on PBS.org. Go to www.pbs.org/video/1174144463/ and sign in with WGCU Passport.

Here’s the original show description: Executive pastry chef Norman Love at Ritz Carlton in Naples, Florida visits Julia Child in her kitchen. Love creates chocolate-cinnamon beignets. Love demonstrates how to make the beignet pastry from choux paste. Using a pot sticker press, Love forms the beignets and then fills them with pastry cream and bananas. Love creates a walnut sauce for the beignets.
June Radio Specials @ 8 pm Sundays

June 4, 11, 18, 25 Invisibilia
Alix Spiegel, Lulu Miller and Hanna Rosin return with the show about the nature of reality and our role in creating it. The stories speak to a central question of our time: How is it that people are looking out at the same landscape and seeing completely different things? Is this just a unique cultural situation, or is our polarization born of something more profound? Through illuminating science and compelling stories about hidden bias, social bubbles, emotional truth, our future selves, and living with wild bears, Invisibilia will explore to what extent we live in the same world, or a world that each of us constructs.

Excerpts and related original stories will also be featured on Morning Edition and All Things Considered throughout June.

Podcast versions of the show also are available this month. These podcasts will be shorter than the one-hour radio broadcast, and formatted differently. While some content will overlap between the podcasts and the radio programs, radio listeners will enjoy a unique experience.

Shows have dealt with such subjects as what it means to “fake it until you make it,” and if that works; the secret emotional life of clothes (and how they affect the wearer); whether or not personalities really stay constant over time; and more.
